This privacy notice explains how we, Baraka Community Partnerships ('Baraka'), may collect and use the information you give us.

Who are we?

Baraka is a small charity dedicated to working with disadvantaged communities to advance the education, healthcare and community life of the people in the communities. We primarily work with communities in Zambia and Laos. Baraka is a registered charity (no. 1130756) and a company limited by guarantee (no. 6885037).

Our legal basis for processing your information

Data privacy law requires us to have one or more lawful grounds to process your personal information. The following grounds are relevant to our use of your information:

Consent. In many cases we will seek consent to process your personal information, for example to send you our newsletter. Where we do rely on consent, you are entitled to withdraw it at any time.

To protect your vital interests. For example to ensure you get urgent medical assistance if needed when competing in a Baraka organised fundraising event.

Where we have a contractual relationship with you. Though the majority of our relationships are voluntary, if we enter into a contract with you we will process information to administer that contract.

Legal obligations. We will sometimes pass on personal information to comply with legal obligations such as providing tax and gift aid information to HMRC.

Legitimate Interests. Where it is appropriate we rely on the processing being in our legitimate interests, provided we are confident that such processing is not likely to override your own legitimate interests or rights and freedoms. Baraka's legitimate interests are ultimately in pursuit of our charitable objectives.
